

Bumpers Calls A Splendid Victory on Democrats to Join Him

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former Gov. Orval E. Faubus Wednesday congratulated Dale Bumpers on his "splendid victory" in Tuesday's Democratic primary and urged Bumpers to work for the benefit of all the people.

Faubus, who opposed Bumpers for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said he would vote for Bumpers in the November general election.

Faubus did not respond to a telegram from Bumpers asking the former governor to join him in unifying the party.

Bumpers, 45, a Charleston lawyer, was not available to newsmen Wednesday in the aftermath of his spectacular victory over Faubus.

With all 2,697 precincts counted, Bumpers had 258,868 votes and Faubus 182,028. Bumpers' vote percentage was 58.7.

Bumpers, addressing his telegram to "Gov. Faubus," told the former six-term governor: "You have worked hard for many years serving the people of Arkansas. I commend you for those efforts. Now, I call on you to join me in unifying the Democratic party. Together, we can win a sweeping victory in November for Arkansas and our party."

Party unity was a major theme of Bumpers' campaign. Political observers believe that his nomination will do more to bring the Democrats together than anything that has happened since Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's defeat of Jim Johnson in the 1966 general election left the party in shambles.

Faubus pledged in a letter to Bumpers that he would support the Democratic nominee.

The former governor said in the letter: "I send to you my sincere congratulations on your fine victory."

"You came from a small town, out of the foothills of the Ozarks, to wage a great campaign to win the Democratic nomination in 1970, very much as I did in 1954 when I came from a small town even farther back in the mountains."

"I had to fight a hard battle in 1954 to win the general election. It will be necessary for you to fight a hard battle to win the general election in 1970."

"I will fulfill my pledge to support the Democratic nominees and will vote for you in the general election."

"With gratitude to all those who helped me, with appreciation for every courtesy shown to me and my workers by both friend and foe, and with malice toward none, I pray that you will use your splendid victory for the benefit of all the people."

Bumpers apparently plans to take off from campaigning for the next few weeks. Deloss Walker, who heads the advertising and public relations firm that has directed Bumpers' campaign, said Wednesday the candidate would take the next few days off.

He declined to reveal Bumpers' whereabouts Wednesday, but he said that as far as he knew the nominee had not made a personal contact with Faubus.

Bumpers tentatively scheduled a trip to Washington Saturday to talk with the Democratic members of Arkansas' congressional delegation to get their ideas on party unity.

Final Totals Are Listed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The final, but unofficial, totals in Tuesday's Democratic runoff election gave Dale Bumpers 258,868 votes to Orval Faubus' 182,028.

The last of the state's 2,697 precincts were reported Wednesday afternoon.

In the lieutenant governor's race, the unofficial complete returns gave Dr. Bob Riley 247,980 votes to 178,118 for James Harrell.

Old Law to Bar Foreign Products

By BROOKS JACKSON Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is taking a 49-year-old import duty law out of mothballs to prevent foreign manufacturers from dumping their products on the U.S. market.

Some Japanese and other foreign businessmen see the action as evidence of a return to a protectionist U.S. trade policy. Administration officials deny the charge.

The law merely guarantees fair play for U.S. manufacturers, government officials say.

The Antidumping Act of 1921 provides for penalty duties against foreign goods found to be dumping on the U.S. market at lower prices than in home markets.

For example, an item sold for $90 in the United States and $100 in its home markets would be charged a $10 duty.

"This is not being administered in a protectionist fashion," one customs official said. "It's being administered vigorously and we're moving much faster."

"But it's designed merely to return competition to a fair level," he added.

The Nixon Administration has begun to enforce the law vigorously—partly in response to prodding from a protectionist-minded Congress—after a period of sporadic enforcement dating back to the early 1950s.

The number of enforcers has nearly tripled—from five to 14—since President Nixon took office. Backlogs of complaints dating to 1968 are being cleared out.

A foreign manufacturer's word that he will charge fair prices in the future is no longer sufficient to halt a full-scale dumping investigation.

Two weeks ago the Treasury Department began the biggest antidumping action in the history of the statute—a formal investigation of alleged dumping of Japanese television sets, a multi-million-dollar import business. It followed last Tuesday with a formal probe of Japanese capacitors.

The Japanese government has expressed concern. American businessmen, lured by the prospect of slowing increasingly competitive foreign producers, have expressed interest. Their inquiries have tripled, and the Customs Bureau expects soon an increase in formal dumping complaints.

The Treasury Department has under consideration more than 30 dumping complaints, involving Japanese loudspeakers, Japanese and other foreign glass products, pig iron from Canada, West Germany and Finland, and large electrical generators from six nations—France, Italy, Japan, Switzerland, Sweden and Britain.

Westmoreland Is Blamed by Accused GI

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — An Army sergeant accused of murder in the alleged My Lai massacre has signed a complaint charging Army Chief of Staff William C. Westmoreland with dereliction of duty in failing to control the troops involved.

The complaint was signed by Sgt. Esequiel Torres, 22, of Brownsville, Tex., one of 10 officers and enlisted men who remain charged in the My Lai killings.

Charles Weltner, Torres' civilian lawyer, said the complaint was filed through military channels and forwarded to Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor. It says Westmoreland, while serving as commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, failed to prevent troops "from inflicting needless injuries upon Vietnamese civilians at My Lai," in the incident March 16, 1968.

An Army spokesman said the charge was believed to be unprecedented. Maximum penalty for conviction on such a charge is three months confinement at hard labor and forfeiture of two-thirds pay for a three-month period.

Weltner disclosed the action against Westmoreland at another in a series of pretrial hearings for Torres.

Torres said in a note accompanying the complaint against Westmoreland that "a commander is responsible for the conduct of his troops."

Obituaries

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Dr. James W. Laurie, who retired July 31 after serving as president of Trinity University nearly 19 years, died Wednesday night. He would have been 67 today. BOSTON (AP) — Herbert A. Levine, 69, blind violinist and actor who for many years performed on the Keith Vaudeville Circuit, died Wednesday. His stage name was Eddie Laverne.

Congratulates His Opponent

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Rep. James Harrell of Russellville, who was defeated by Dr. Bob Riley in the race for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, issued a statement Wednesday congratulating Riley on his victory.

"I wish to congratulate Dr. Bob Riley on his successful campaign..." Harrell said in a prepared statement. "He should do well in November."

Harrell also said that 1970 was "truly the Democratic party's greatest year."

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MR. and MRS. GARY BUTLER

Miss Jo Karen Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Morris, Houston, and Gary Troy Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy L. Butler, Houston, and grandson of Mrs. Roy Butler and the late Mrs. W. L. Clark of Hope, were married July 17, 7:30 p.m. at Richmond Plaza Baptist Church, Houston.

The Rev. John Click officiated in a double ring ceremony. Pricilla Piper sang The Wedding Prayer and Whither Thou Goest. Mrs. Dianna Steelman presided at the organ. The bride given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a gown of white silk organza combined with Peau-d'ange lace. In Victorian silhouette, the bodice was fashioned with a high neckline of the lace studded with pearls and crystals above a sheer yoke and the full blown sleeves were cuffed at the wrist with lace and pearls. The A-line skirt was of lace covered with silk organza. Her silk illusion veil fell from a headpiece of tulip shaped petals covered with pearls. She carried a crescent bridal bouquet of white glads, and wore a gold heartshaped

Saturday, September 19 in the American Legion Hall at Glenwood, 10:00 a.m. until 8:00 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend. Admission is free.

lovelier incruited with pearls, about her neck that was an heirloom of her maternal grandmothers.

Mrs. Dana Polson of Dallas was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Mott, the bride's sisters, Mrs. Peggy Alldorfer and Mrs. Susie Ramsey. The bridesmaid's dresses were made of pale blue nylon dotted swiss over blue taffeta, they were of highwaisted style with roll collar, bell sleeves and trimmed with blue daisies. They wore matching pale blue widebrimmed crownless hats with waist length satin streamers, large pearl pompom rings, and carried a single giant long stemmed white Killian daisy.

Chuck Haas served the groom as best man and groomsmen were Herb Stokes, David Burns and David Butler, brother of the groom.

Little Miss Janet Butler, sister of the groom, was flower girl. Her floor length gown was a miniature replica of the brides maid's. Michael Morris, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Ushers were Bill Ramsey and Richard Alldorfer. Candles, on spiral candelabras with a background of greenery and confronted with large baskets of white glads, were lighted by Bill Ramsey and David Morris, brother of the bride.

For her daughters wedding Mrs. Morris chose a street length dress of mint green embroidered faille with white accessories. She wore a matching mint orchid at her shoulder. Mrs. Butler, mother of the groom, wore an aqua double knit with white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the activities building of the church. Miss Dianna Vance, cousin of the bride, was seated at the brides book. Mrs. Lily Ann Vance, cousin of the bride, served the four tiered wedding cake decorated in the brides chosen colors of blue and white and topped with the traditional miniature bride and groom under an archway of white roses. The groom's cake was served by Mrs. Pat Locario, punch by Mrs. Bobbie Varnell and coffee by Mrs. Margaret Gentry.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Miss Lillie Clark of Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Butler, John Dale, Marilyn, Barbara, Blake and Brett Butler of Texas City, Texas.

Following a wedding trip to the Ozarks and Hot Springs, the couple will make their home in Houston. The bride is a graduate of Bellaire High School and the Patricia Stephens modeling and finishing school Dallas, Tex. The groom is a graduate of Bellaire High School and is presently attending the University of Houston for a degree in Pharmacy. He is a member of Phi Delta Chi Pharmacy fraternity.

Ester-Batson Vows Exchanged

Miss Cheryl (Cherry) Estes became the bride of Lt. Charles Franklin Batson, III on Friday night, August 28 in Arkadelphia. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Estes of Arkadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Batson, II of Hope.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Maurice Hurley in the home of the groom's grandmother, Mrs. C. F. Batson, Sr., and the late Dr. Batson.

The bride, dressed in a street-length blue and white silk dress, was attended by Mrs. Roger Nunn, sister of the groom.

Mr. Batson served his son as best man.

After the ceremony, wedding cake, coffee and fruit punch were served in the dining room by the bride's sisters, Misses Donna, Amanda and Grace Estes.

The bride is a graduate of Arkadelphia High School and is employed in administration with Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

The groom is a graduate of Hope High and Ouachita Baptist University, where he also received his U. S. Army commission.

Lt. and Mrs. Batson are temporarily at home in the Alma Apartments in El Dorado, where both are employed, until he reports for duty in Fort Bliss, Texas.

Prescott to Host Hope Friday

By Bill Moore
Star Sports Writer

Tomorrow will bring one of the best rivals in the state, and what a dilly it should be, with the Hope Bobcats meeting the Prescott Curley Wolves.

This one is at Prescott and would seem to give the Curley Wolves a small edge, but as you know, in the rivalry anything can happen.

Prescott relies on the powerful running of Timmy Grimes, Joseph Johnson, and Jimmy Johnson, all three seniors. The receivers will be seniors George DeWoody and Horace McGough, both with good hands and good blocking.

The interior line only has one junior with the rest seniors. Center Larry Burke will anchor the line with Ricky Marlar and Duncan Culpepper on each side of him. The tackles will possibly be 181 pound Danny Jarvis and 185 pound George Stockton.

Signal calling duties will be taken care of by Randy Koger, a 155 pound senior with some experience, and he can be backed up by little Freddie Wren, who is the starting defensive halfback.

Jeff Jordan and Bob Spearman appear solid at the cornerbacks with Jessie Green at noseman. Other standouts will be defensive halfback Malcom Culpepper, defensive end Lee Van Hook, and defensive tackle John Coe.

The offensive formations are basically the Double wing and pro-type to give the Curley Wolves both a running and passing attack. Tomorrow we will see a real gridiron rivalry between two old foes, both wanting to win. May it be a good one.

Tonight the Hope Bobkittens travel to Prescott to play their first game of the 1970 season. Hope believes that they have a pretty fair team and they will be working hard to prove just that. Gametime is at 7:30 p.m. and the Kittens are ready to play.

Hope has won the last two years by identical 25-0 scores.

Negro QBs Are Still a Novelty

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "To people all over the world, the black quarterback is a novelty. There shouldn't be any such distinction—you should be a quarterback, not a black quarterback or a white quarterback. But it's not that way.

"So no matter what you feel, you know you have to excel to promote the idea that a black can lead a pro team."

Those words belong to Marlin Briscoe, who two years ago was the first black quarterback in pro football history to play regularly and who, until two nights ago, was the roommate of the first black passer expected to reach stardom—Jimmy Harris.

Today Jimmy Harris is incommunicado—a victim of pro football's waiver list and possibly the pressure of trying to become a black quarterback when he should have been able to attempt to become a quarterback in the same sense as any white player.

Only Jimmy Harris can say exactly why he has responded as he has to being placed on waivers, but some light may be shed on the subject by the opinions expressed by Briscoe and Harris in a recent interview with the Associated Press.

At the time, two weeks ago, Briscoe drew a distinction between the problem he faced when he joined the Denver Broncos out of Omaha University and the problem Harris faced when he joined the Buffalo Bills out of Grambling.

"My situation was different because I had been a quarterback at a white school," Briscoe said. "I didn't have to make the adjustment of commanding white players...."

"A majority of good white players came from the South and naturally there are some feelings as to a black person

16 District Teams Open Season

Sixteen out of the seventeen Div. 4AA football teams opened their 1970 gridiron seasons this past week with seven posting victories and two games involving four district teams played to scoreless ties.

Div. 4AA East led in conference action with four games. McGehee scored six touchdowns, four extra points, and two safeties in downing Dermott 44 to 0. Star City defeated Dumas 15 to 6; Hamburg and Monticello played 0-0 contest with Hamburg having the edge on penetrations and first downs, and total net yardage. Lake Village and Warren also battled to a 0-0 tie but Lake Village had the edge in penetrations, first downs, and total offense.

In non-league action Fordyce defeated Rison 14-0 and Eudora downed Gillett 41-6.

Div. 4AA West conference action saw Camden defeat cross-town rival Fairview 21-0 in the only loop action. In non-league games Arkadelphia had 315 yards total offense in defeating Texarkana 20-13; Malvern made more yards and more first downs but lost 21 to 12 to Hot Springs; Hope likewise won the statistics but lost the game 28 to 14 to Ashdown. Magnolia had over 300 yards total offense in downing Smackover 28-6. Crossett came from 12 points behind to edge Stuttgart 13-12.

Conference action this week sends Dermott to Star City, Lake Village to Fordyce, Hamburg to Warren, and Eudora to Monticello in the East; Malvern plays at Crossett in the West. Non-league action: Dumas at DeWitt; Fairview at Watson Chapel; Hope at Prescott; Magnolia at Haynesville, La.; Arkadelphia host to Gurdon; Camden host to PB Coleman.

An indication that this might be a "passing" year shows in the statistics. A total of 165 passes were attempted by AA teams with 64 completions. (Game reports of Star City at Dumas and Gillette at Eudora were not received.)

leading them....

"Jimmy could exhibit a little more leadership than he has, but I correlate this with his being from an all-black school...."

Harris so far has been unable to fully exhibit his talent. He was installed as the No. 1 quarterback of the Bills last year but his season was cut short by injuries and in five preseason games this year he was able to pass for only one touchdown.

The placid Harris was bothered most, however, by the constant suggestions that he needed to exhibit more leadership qualities.

"I'm always getting knocked about my leadership ability," he said candidly. "My quietness and lack of talk are taken for lack of leadership. I definitely think I'm a leader. Maybe I'm unusual, but I feel my only job is to go out and perform. If I perform, they'll follow."

"There's no fear of white guys. When I'm in the huddle, I don't consider whether there are white faces or black faces I'm worried about executing. Whether I impress the guys in the huddle is irrelevant to me at the time."

But Harris realized he was a trail-blazer of sorts and that the stereotypers who have questioned the ability of blacks to lead were constantly waiting for him to stumble.

"It's come to the point now where I deeply want to go good not only for myself, but for other black quarterbacks—so LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Showdowns in the second week of the high school football season? The label fits Little Rock Hall vs. Little Rock Catholic, Pine Bluff vs. Little Rock Central and Helena vs. Little Rock McClellan.

Top-ranked Little Rock Hall and sixth-ranked Little Rock Catholic meet Thursday night on the AstroTurf in War Memorial Stadium.

Hall opened with a 33-6 victory over neighboring Parkview and Catholic scored a 36-13 victory over Little Rock Horace Mann.

Hall has the year-long challenge of Class AAAA competition, but the Rockets are not eligible to compete for the AAA - West title because of schedule difficulties. The Rockets should be ready for a supreme effort against the Warriors.

LITTLE ROCK CATHOLIC 13, LITTLE ROCK HALL 10.

Pine Bluff, a darkhorse in the Class AAAA race, whipped Watson Chapel 42-7 last week.

Friday night is the season opener for Central under new coach Jerry Welch. The Zebras, who obviously benefitted from consolidation with two Negro schools, will have the advantage of having played a game. This one could go either way.

LITTLE ROCK CENTRAL 10, PINE BLUFF 7.

Both Helena and McClellan opened with AAA - East victories last week. Helena scored four touchdowns in the second half for a 28-7 victory over Blytheville. McClellan squeaked past Forrest City 12-7.

The home field could make the difference.

LITTLE ROCK MCCLELLAN 20, HELENA 14.

Last week's percentage was a paltry .623.

Here are some other predictions involving AAAA, AAA and AA teams:

El Dorado 19, NLR Northeast 12; Fort Smith Northside 20; Fort Smith Southside 6; Little Rock Horace Mann 19, Memphis Carver 13; Jonesboro 20, North Little Rock 14; Forrest City 14; Blytheville 7; Hot Springs 20, Jacksonville 13; Marianna 20, Osceola 7; West Memphis 13, Stuttgart 6; Benton 20, Sylvan Hills 7; Fayetteville 13, Little Rock Parkview 7; Texarkana 14, Texarkana, Tex., 13; Alma 19, Bentonville 7; Conway 10, Harrison 6; Van Buren 13, Huntsville 12; Berryville 13, Mountain Home 7; Rogers 20, Siloam Springs 7.

St. Annes 13, Subiaco 7; Brinkley 19, Des Arc 12; DeWitt 20, Dumas 13; West Memphis Wonder 20, Memphis Geeter 19; Lonoke 14, Bryant 12; Joe T. Robinson 20, Cabot 7; McGehee 19, Dollarway 14; Sheridan 20, Hot Springs Lakeside 14; Fairview 19, Watson Chapel 14; Morrilton 20, Searcy 7; Russellville 20, Atkins 6; Star City 21, Dermott 14; Fordyce 7, Lake Village 6; Warren 19, Hamburg 14; Eudora 20, Monticello 14; Arkadelphia 20, Gurdon 6; Ashdown 19, Nashville 7; Camden 20, Pine Bluff Coleman 14; Malvern 20, Crossett 13; Hope 21, Prescott 10; Magnolia 19, Haynesville, La., 7; Batesville 19, Pocahontas 14; Newport 20, Wynne 12 and Trumann 20, Paragould 14.

Fullback Russ Garber Will Play Sat.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Wednesday that fullback Russ Garber is fully recovered from a leg injury he suffered last week in practice and would probably start in the Razorback's season opener Saturday.

Arkansas faces Stanford in a nationally televised game that will be played in Little Rock.

Broyles said defensive end Bruce James would start despite rib injuries he received last month in an automobile accident.

Broyles said he would not decide who would do the punting until the night of the game. Broyles will choose Mike Reppond or Ken Curry.

that if I don't make it, that won't be held up as an example.

"I wouldn't want it to have any reflection on anyone else's chances."

Card Skipper Still Talks About First KC Chiefs Are a Better Team Now

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are three teams and 7½ games between Red Schoendienst and first place in the nervous National League East. But the St. Louis skipper still can talk about taking it all ... as long as the front-runners keep playing giveaway.

"We're going to win the pennant," Schoendienst proclaimed, with a straight face, after his Cardinals knocked off the plodding Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 Wednesday night.

The Pirates' third straight setback cost them undisputed possession of the top spot for the first time in 5½ weeks. But the New York Mets given an opportunity to pass Pittsburgh, could do no better than split a twinnight with Philadelphia for a share of the lead. And the third-place Chicago Cubs remained one game back after a 3-2 loss to last-place Montreal.

Since Aug. 2, when the Pirates seized the lead, they have staggered along at a 17-19 pace. The Mets are 19-19, the Cubs 20-17 and the Cards 21-17 over the same stretch. Schoendienst's club, which moved within 5½ lengths of the lead before losing their momentum, are still seven games below the .500 mark. But even if the Cards are out of title contention, they surely will have something to say about who wins the elusive half-pennant. They play the Pirates again tonight, then meet the Mets and Cubs three times each in the following seven days.

In Wednesday's other NL action, Cincinnati downed Los Angeles 6-0; Atlanta split a doubleheader with San Diego, winning 6-3 in 11 innings, then losing 7-4, and San Francisco topped Houston 9-5.

In the American League, Baltimore nipped the New York Yankees 1-0; Boston trimmed Detroit 4-1; Washington edged Cleveland 5-4; and the Chicago White Sox swept a pair from California 11-4 and 3-1 and Minnesota beat Oakland 3-1 in the opener of a scheduled twin bill. The Twins-A's nightcap was rained out, along with the Milwaukee-Kansas City single game.

The Cardinals erased a 4-0 Pittsburgh lead with three-run rallies in the fifth and sixth innings. Ted Simmons' two-run double keyed the first uprising and ex-Pirate Carl Taylor pinch hit a run-scoring bloop double in the middle of the second burst, enabling left-hander Frank Bertina to pick up his first victory of the year.

Willie Montanez, just recalled from the minors, stroked a run-scoring pinch single in the ninth to send the Phillies past the Mets in their opener. But southpaw Ray Sadecki earned the home club a split by taming the Phils on four hits and striking out 12 in the nightcap, Duffy Dyer providing the margin of victory with a bases-loaded single in the sixth.

Light-hitting Bobby Wine beat the Cubs with a two-out, run-scoring single in the ninth and also contributed a pair of defensive gems at shortstop.

"You don't mind getting beat 15-1," grumbled Cubs' pilot Leo Durocher, "but not like this. With the pennant race at this stage, you ought to beat the teams you think you should."

Rookie Milt Wilcox fired a five-hitter for the Reds, whose magic number dwindled to seven enroute to clinching the NL West title. Lee May drove in two runs with a double and his 30th homer.

Bob Tillman's leadoff homer in the 11th triggered a three-run Atlanta flurry in the opener at San Diego, but the Padres rebounded behind Earl Wilson, who hurled four shutout innings of relief for his first NL victory

KC Chiefs Are a Better Team Now

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The rest of the National Football League should take note of the fact that Coach Hank Stram believes the Kansas City Chiefs are a better team this season than last year when they won the world championship.

That doesn't mean that Stram thinks the Chiefs will be a shoo-in for another world title. He doesn't.

"Everyone else is going to be better, too," Stram says. "Competition this year will be the greatest in the history of pro football."

Still, Stram and the Chiefs have their eyes focused on another world crown and, to a man, they believe they will win it when the next Super Bowl is played Jan. 17 in Miami, Fla.

Stram speaks with complete confidence about his team and points with particular pride to the Chiefs' defense, a grandiose collection of talent. He can start the same 11 rugged players who started every game on defense in 1969. That defense led the old American Football League last year in 18 of 29 categories and held Minnesota's high-scoring Vikings to a feeble seven points in Kansas City's 23-7 Super Bowl victory.

Kansas City's famous front four of ends Jerry Mays and Aaron Brown and tackles Curley Culp and Buck Buchanan are back up there again this season ready to harass the opposition. The linebackers, as usual, are Bobby Bell, Willie Lanier and Jim Lynch. Jim Marsalis and Emmitt Thomas are the cornerbacks and Jim Kearney and Johnny Robinson at safety.

The Chiefs' first offensive unit, likewise, will be a carbon copy of the one which led the AFL in rushing a year ago. Len Dawson, regarded by Stram as "the most accurate passer in pro football," will be the quarterback. He has fully recovered from the right knee injury which kept him sidelined for six games last year.

Dawson completed 59 per cent of his passes in 1969, hitting on 98-of-166 tosses for 1,323 yards and nine touchdowns. Mike Livingston is the No. 2 quarterback. He filled in while Dawson was injured and the Chiefs won all six games. Livingston completed 84 of 161 passes for 52.2 and 1,123 yards and six touchdowns.

Mike Garrett, seeking to make what he calls his last year in pro football his greatest, and Robert Holmes, nicknamed "The Tank," will be at the running backs. They were the team's two top rushers last season. Otis Taylor, one of the two top receivers with Garrett, and Frank Pitts are the wide receivers.

Fred Arbanas is the tight end in Stram's version of the I formation. The rest of the offensive unit includes Jim Tyrer and Dave Hill at the tackles, Ed Budde and Mo Moorman at the guards and E.J. Holub at center. Rookie Sid Smith, the Chiefs' No. 1 draft choice from Southern California, could get the starting nod at right tackle in place of Hill.

The Chiefs have an abundance of standout reserves who are certain to see much action. Among them are running backs Warren McVea, Ed Podolak, Wendell Hayes and Curtis McClinton, wide receiver Glosier Richardson and rookie Clyde Werner at linebacker.

Jerrel Wilson, fresh from his 44.4-yard average in 1969, will do the punting. Jan Stenerud, the transplanted Norwegian whose 16 successive field goals last year broke Lou Groza's 16-year-old record, is the place-kicker.

Stram, an innovative genius, doesn't expect to unfold a vastly different formation or series of plays this season.

20 Game Winners Keep Even

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Perry and Mike Cuellar just about put the finishing touches on the divisional races but the pair of 20-game winners are battling on even terms in the American League skirmish for most victories.

Perry captured 20 games last year and won his 22nd Wednesday night as the Minnesota Twins knocked off their closest pursuers, the Oakland A's, 3-1. The victory put the Twins 6½ games ahead in the West Division with 22 games remaining. The second game of their scheduled two-night doubleheader was called by rain.

Cuellar, a 23-game winner last year and co-holder of the Cy Young Award along with Denny McLain of Detroit, also swept to his 22nd triumph of the campaign Wednesday night, stopping the New York Yankees 1-0 on seven hits.

The narrow triumph increased Baltimore's East spread over New York to 10 games with 20 left to play.

In other AL action, Chicago swept a pair from California 11-4 and 3-1 in a rain-shortened eight innings; Washington edged Cleveland 5-4; Boston stopped Detroit 4-1; and Kansas City at Milwaukee was postponed by rain.

In the National League, the New York Mets split, losing to Philadelphia 3-2 before winning 3-1; St. Louis trimmed Pittsburgh 6-4; Montreal nipped Chicago 3-2; San Francisco ripped Houston 9-5; Cincinnati blanked Los Angeles 6-0 and Atlanta and San Diego split a doubleheader, Atlanta winning the opener 6-3 in 11 innings and the Padres taking the second game 7-4.

Perry, 22-11, drove in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning with a single as the Twins snapped Oakland's eight-game winning string.

It was the right-hander's fourth straight triumph over Oakland this season and brought his lifetime mark to 18-9 over the second-place A's.

Perry scattered five hits in eight innings before Stan Williams finished up.

Cuellar, 23-7 last year, stopped the Yankees on seven hits with his screwball and the left-hander increased his season's record to 22-7.

The Orioles scored the only run of the game in the sixth inning on two-out doubles by Frank and Brooks Robinson, ending the Yankees winning streak at five games. It was Cuellar's seventh straight triumph. He is 14-2 since July 3.

American Cup Holy Grail of Yachting

By JANE M. DOZIER
Associated Press Writer
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — "The America's Cup is the Holy Grail of yachting, says Bill Ficker, 43, skipper of the defending boat Intrepid. "Whatever is done casually in other yachting endeavors is done with perfection here."

In the tension-filled days of the August elimination trials, a crewmember of the Valiant, the yacht Ficker defeated to earn the right to defend the America's Cup, looked woefully across at the Intrepid dock and lamented: "It's Ficker's organization; it's just better than ours."

No one who has seen the tall, bald-headed architect from Newport Beach, Calif., can fail to be impressed with his poise and self-discipline.

"Ficker is quicker," read the green and white buttons his crew members wear. In his actions, Ficker is the epitome of affable patience.

"I'm a very competitive individual," says the former world's champion, who by perseverance came from 22nd eight years later to win the Starboat championship. "I like to have goals and to make an effort to win something unique. I think everybody is a bit of a ham, and I like to have recognition in things that count. The America's Cup is the summit."

"He leaves nothing to chance," an Intrepid crew member remarks. "It's his attention to detail and his control over his emotions. If we make mistakes, he doesn't blow up—he explains how we can do better. Ficker can make mistakes, too, but he always comes back."

In the America's Cup, seconds determine a boat's edge. The Intrepid, redesigned this year by young Britton Chance Jr., from the original Olin Stephens boat which successfully defended the cup in 1967. This year's version is so finely tuned, so technologically high-strung with space-age materials (titanium and beryllium) that the strain on man and equipment is immense.

"The Intrepid is difficult to steer," those close to the Intrepid admit. But during a race, Ficker's long, tapered fingers grasp one of the twin wheels with comparative ease.

"My most important duty is concentration," says Ficker, who during a race will talk only occasionally with Steve Van Dyke, the Intrepid's tactician. It will be Van Dyke's responsibility to watch Gretel II and with Pete Wilson, navigator, determine wind velocity, speed and relative boat positions.

"Personal self-discipline is extremely important in life—learning to get along with people. I like to think of myself as a perfectionist," says Ficker. "In boats I've sailed I've always tried to get the crew that have the proper temperament and can compromise their personal feelings for the team effort."

Most of the Intrepid crew—students and boys on leave from the Navy—have been winning skippers in their own right. Younger, (average age 23), than the Australians, they are unmarried for the most part. "I wanted them to be without other responsibilities, and be able to take victory and loss with the same emotions and go on and win."

During three months of intensive training, Ficker's crew has spent five hours on the water and seven additional hours each day in calisthenics, splicing wires, and sawing the ends of bolts to reduce weight and increase Intrepid's speed. At night, at Sea Edge, the damp, wind-swept Newport mansion which houses the Intrepid team, Ficker discussed video-taped movies of the day's performance.

Ficker's opponent, Jim Hardy of Gretel II, made this comment about the Intrepid. "The sails are so clean, the boat so clean, the crew so tidy. Whether sailing or tied up at the dock, the whole outfit looks to me as though someone really cares. I guess that person is Bill Ficker."

Clay to Sign Back Into Fight Picture

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay is supposed to sign himself back into boxing's heavyweight title picture today, giving fight fans renewed hope for a dream fight against current champion Joe Frazier.

Clay, the former unbeaten champion who hasn't had a regular fight in more than three years during his appeals on a draft evasion conviction, and Jerry Quarry will sign official contracts to meet in Atlanta Oct. 26, it was announced Wednesday.

At the same time, in Washington, Frazier confirmed earlier reports by announcing he would meet light heavyweight champion Bob Foster for the title Nov. 18 in Detroit.

Then, should both fights come off and both Clay, who prefers to be called Muhammad Ali, and Frazier emerge with victories, the logical progression would be for them to get into the ring against each other.

"I will fight Clay any place in the United States, including Atlanta," Frazier assured.

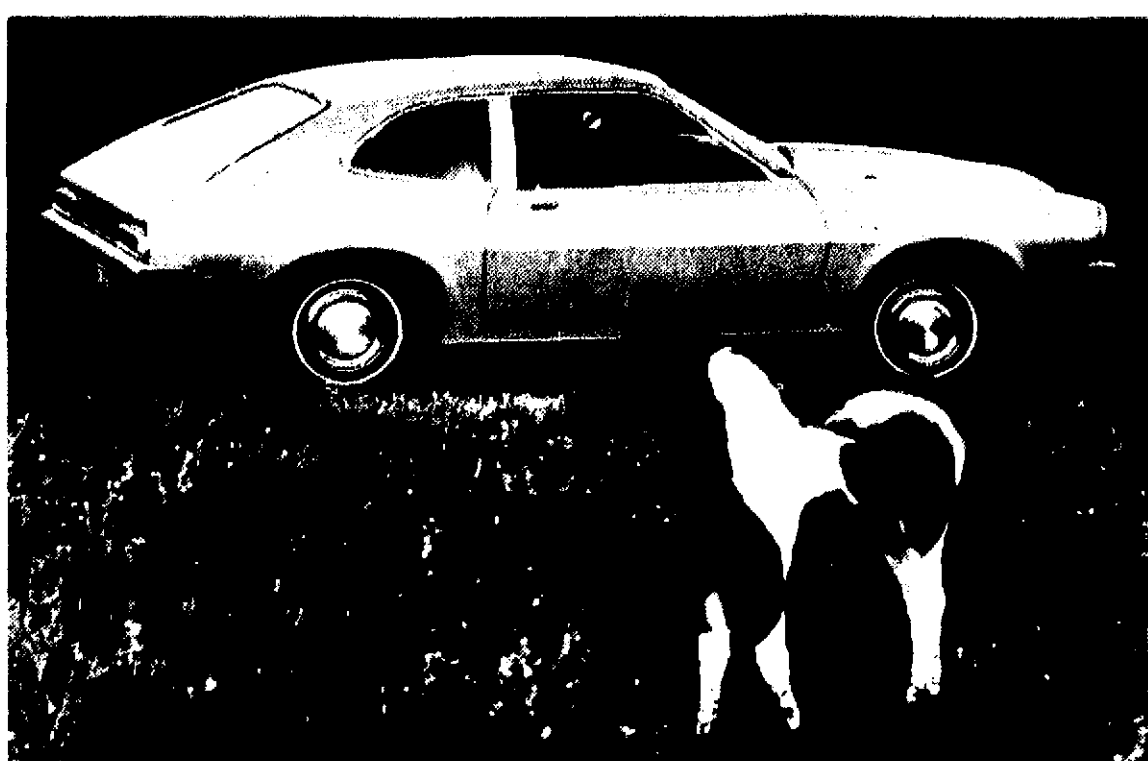

His manager, Yank Durham, expressed doubt that the Clay-Quarry fight would ever happen, but if it does, "we'll fight him in December anyplace in the United States if he can get a license."

A license has been Clay's problem ever since he was stripped of his title by the World Boxing Association and the New York Athletic Commission when he refused military induction and was sentenced to five years in prison. Now 26, he has been refused a license in many cities.

However, he did manage to get a license in Georgia for an eight-round exhibition against three little known heavyweights in Atlanta last Wednesday night. It was his first public appearance in the ring since he boxed two three-round exhibitions in Detroit, June 15, 1967.

In his last title defense, he knocked out Zora Folley at Madison Square Garden in New York, March 22, 1967.

Quarry of Bellflower, Calif., already has fought for the title and lost, currently is ranked the No. 1 contender by Ring Magazine and No. 3 by the WBA.

Pinto, Ford Division's frisky new little car, kicks up its heels with two engines, a 1600-cc. base powerplant and a 2000-cc. option. With "Pintopower" to spare, it excels at turnpike speeds and in tight passing situations. Small and light, Pinto gallops through the heaviest traffic and can wiggle into the tightest parking place. Ford dealers will introduce the '71 Pinto on September 11.

Washed Out U.S. Tennis Play Resumes

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) —

The washed-out U.S. Open Tennis Championships resume today with a match-up of the Australian and American powerhouses, and one Aussie pro likened it to "Russian roulette."

"The day one player or one group of players dominates this game is gone," said Warren Woodcock, teaching professional of the West Side Tennis Club. "The sudden-death scoring system has changed everything."

"Now everybody fights to get to 6-6. Then it's just like tossing a coin, or Russian roulette. One shot and you're gone."

"With the tie-break, tennis will get like golf. No player, such as Rod Laver or John Newcombe, will be a clinch. Any top player can win any tournament."

Woodcock's theory receives a good test in today's men's quarter-final matches, two of which send ranking American players against high-seeded Australians.

In the tie-break, when a set reaches 6-6, the players, alternating service, play best five-of-nine points for the set. It can and often does—go down to one point.

Arthur Ashe Jr., the first U.S. Open champion in 1968, meets Wimbledon winner John New-combe while Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., who ranks No. 1 nationally, faces the wily Ken Rosewall. Newcombe is seeded second and Rosewall third, highest seeding now that Laver has been eliminated.

Ford's new 1971 Pinto, a two-door sedan, combines a small-car feel with a sporty-car look. The sloping windshield is accentuated by the low, sleek lines of the hood and fenders. Ventless side windows add to the trim lines of the car. In the rear, Pinto's short deck and fastback lines stress the contemporary look of the Seventies. The Pinto is about 13 1/2 feet long, turns in a circle of only 31 feet for easy maneuverability and delivers more than 25 miles per gallon in city-suburban driving.

In the other two matches, Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., meets Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., in an all-American pairing while fourth-seeded Tony Roche of Australia goes against unseeded Brian Fairlie of New Zealand.

The men's semifinals will be played Saturday with the final Sunday. The winner gets $20,000.

Place Kickers Available in Pro Play

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Any team in the National Football League needing a place kicker had quite a choice today.

On the market are George Blanda, pro football's all-time leading point-maker, most of them with his foot, and Lou Michaels, who ranks fifth.

Both were given the boot Wednesday by the Oakland Raiders and Baltimore Colts, respectively, although the kick Michaels got made a bigger imprint.

Blanda, who will be 43 years old next week with 20 years in pro football—another record—was placed on waivers by the Raiders, but thus far had gone unclaimed. That meant there still was some chance that he could be reactivated for the start of the season Sept. 20.

Blanda, who still can fill in at quarterback, was no tottering old man last season, kicking for 105 points last season. He hit 20 of 37 field goal tries and all 45 extra points he tried. That gave him a career total of 1,477 points.

Michaels, on the other hand, has no chance of returning to the Colts, who he helped to the NFL title in 1968. Rookie Jim O'Brien, a No. 3 draft choice from the University of Cincinnati, has been given the job, and also shows promise as a wide receiver.

Michaels, who ranks behind only Blanda, Lou Groza, Gino Cappelletti and Sam Baker in the point department, still hopes to hook on with another team. At 34 with 12 years in the NFL behind him, he has kicked for 912 points in his career.

Last season, however, was an off-year for him as he managed only 75 points, connecting on 14 of 31 field goal tries and 33 of 34 extra point attempts. A starter at defensive end in 1966 with the Colts and a reserve in recent years, his playing days in the line are about over.

Several once highly-touted young quarterbacks also were given the heave-ho—James Harris of Buffalo, Jim Ward of the Colts and Bill Cappelman of Minnesota.

Harris, who had started all of Buffalo's five pre-season games, was thought ready to be the first Negro regular quarterback when he was suddenly and surprisingly waived by the Bills Tuesday.

He disappeared when told of the news, and the Bills had not heard from him Wednesday, the day he became a free agent when no team claimed him.

The Bills still have veteran Dan Darragh and rookie Dennis Shaw, and Coach John Rauch said he would decide next week if he would carry three quarterbacks. Then, Wednesday, he claimed Ward from Baltimore.

Ward, drafted No. 14 from Gettysburg in 1966, was playing behind Johnny Unitas and Earl Morrall but was considered the likely replacement for the 37-year-old Unitas when he retired.

Cappelman, another rookie, was praised earlier in the exhibition season by the Vikings, who still are missing starting veteran Joe Kapp.

Buffalo offered a few other surprises Tuesday when it waived veterans Harry Jacobs, a middle linebacker, and George Saimes, a safety. Jacobs was grabbed Wednesday by the New Orleans Saints. The Saints also acquired veteran defensive end Willie Towns from Dallas for an undisclosed draft pick.

A retroactive tax is a legal one.

Dodgers Beat Blues in the Playoffs

MEMPHIS (AP) — Ron Cey's sixth inning home run gave the Albuquerque Dodgers all the insurance they needed as they beat the Memphis Blues 3-0 in the second game of the Texas League championship playoffs Wednesday night.

The win ties the series 1-1 as the action shifts to Albuquerque Thursday night.

Lefty Dave Allen spaced four hits in the eight innings he worked to pickup the win. The Blues loaded the bases with none out in the ninth on reliever Mike Mathwig, but he got Lute Barnes on a pop to shallow center and Billy Carthel on a strike-out before George Strickland came on to get Ted Bashore on a grounder to end the game.

Albuquerque's first run came in the fifth when Joe Ferguson was walked. After two were out, Larry Eckenrode doubled off the right field wall to send Ferguson in.

Edward Everett Hale's novel, "The Brick Moon," was first published in 1869.

TO THE CITIZENS OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY

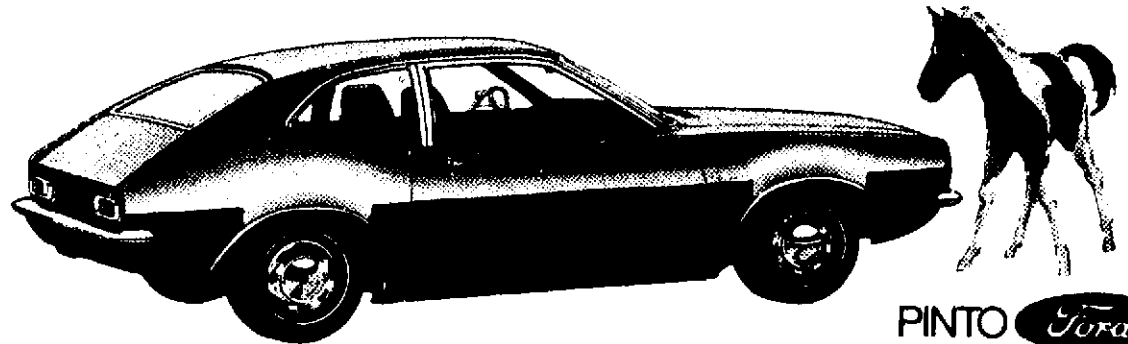

I sincerely thank each of you for your vote and support on September 8.

I am looking forward to working for and with the citizens of Hempstead County.

HENRY SINYARD

Pol. Ad. pd for by Henry Sinyard

Meet Ford's new Pinto. The little carefree car.

If you have the questions, Pinto has the answers.

Q. What do you mean, "carefree"?

A. Pinto's designed to free you from car cares, big and little. Cares about high prices and big gas bills. Cares about parking. Cares about service and reliability. Power and stability. Quiet and roominess.

Q. You say Pinto is little. How little?

A. Pinto is only 3 inches longer than VW. But its turning circle is actually a little less, so Pinto can slip easily into tight parking spaces.

Q. And inside?

A. Pinto gives you more interior roominess overall than Volkswagen. And getting in and out is easier because Pinto's doors are a good half-foot wider.

Q. What about price?

A. Pinto is priced like the little economy imports, too.

Q. What about power?

A. Pinto delivers 75 horsepower and averages over 25 miles per gallon in simulated city suburban driving. The engine is front-mounted and exceptionally quiet for a car in this class. Pinto is the only American economy car equipped with a 4-speed, fully synchronized transmission at no extra cost.

Q. What else is standard equipment?

A. High Back bucket seats. Direct-Aire ventilation with upper-level fresh air outlets. Heater/defroster with 3-speed fan. Two-speed electric windshield wipers. Electric windshield washers. Your choice of 15 exterior colors. And more.

Q. How about optional extras?

A. Pinto offers a 100-hp engine and 3-speed automatic transmission. Front disc brakes. Even built-in air conditioning. Tinted glass. Vinyl roof. "Flipper" rear quarter windows. Fold-down rear seat. Bumper guards and side molding with vinyl inserts to protect the paint. More than most imports offer—at prices economy-car buyers can afford.

Q. Reliability?

A. Pinto's engine has already logged 50 million owner-driven miles. And the strength of some of Pinto's parts makes ordinary little economy cars look puny by comparison. Parts like the starter motor, ball joints, rear wheel bearings are heavy duty. Craftsmanship? Pinto is the only American car with hand-matched transmission gears.

Q. What's Pinto like out on the road?

A. Pinto has a wider stance than any economy import, for better stability in turns and gusty crosswinds. For more road feel, and more precise handling, Pinto has rack & pinion steering—like Porsche and Jaguar—something you won't find on any other American car.

Q. Tell me about service.

A. Pinto is so simple you can do much of the maintenance yourself, if you like. The Owner's Manual shows you how. And Pinto's free Do-It-Yourself Key helps you perform minor service functions.

Q. Suppose I don't service Pinto myself?

A. You still save when your Ford Dealer does it. For example, Pinto needs an oil change half as often as the leading import. And a chassis lube only one-sixth as often.

Q. Sounds great—where can I test-drive Pinto?

A. Your nearest Ford Dealer. And if you have any more questions, he can answer them.

Ely's Asking Bid Started in '30s

Opening lead—♣ K

In some respects Ely Culbertson was way ahead of his time back in the early '30s. At least, he was always coming up with ideas for new bids.

One of his greatest brain children was the "Asking Bid." This bid was so far ahead of its day that no one wanted to use it back in the '30s. It is still a mighty complicated bid and only a few expert partnerships use it today but there is a lot of merit to it.

Specifically, an "Asking Bid" inquires about his partner's holding in some suit. The simplest asking bid is a common sense one.

North has a mighty fine hand opposite an opening bid that improves considerably when his partner gets around to bidding the heart suit. He wants to find out exactly one thing. That is what his partner can do about the club suit.

South has a very strong opening bid. 16 high-card points and two good five-card suits. He merely bids two hearts at his second turn. At this point North can count enough points for a slam. However, you can't make a slam if the opponents take the first two tricks and North wonders about the club suit.

His jump to five hearts is a clear request to partner to go to six if he can handle the second round of clubs. South can't handle the second round of clubs so he passes in spite of his big hand.

If West doesn't open a club South will make all the tricks but West does open his suit and does take the first two tricks. This five-heart call was a common sense asking bid. Tomorrow we will show one of Ely's original asking bids.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The whippoorwill is a bird better known by its distinctive call rather than by sight. The World Almanac notes that its call, usually heard around dawn or dusk, is unmistakable as its three rapidly uttered syllables suggest its name. The whippoorwill's plumage blends with leaves on the ground, making it unnoticeable except when flushed.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Early Treatment Is Best For Temporal Arteritis

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—In what way does disodium edetate help arteriosclerosis? Is it available yet?

A—This drug is given to bind the calcium in the blood when too much calcium is present in the tissues including the arteries. It is available on prescription as Endrate or Sodium Versenate.

Q—I have temporal arteritis. What is the cause and treatment?

A—The cause of this inflammation of the temporal artery in the skull is not known. It is rare in persons who are under 55 and is characterized by pain and soreness to touch in the temporal region. If cortisone is given early in the course of the disease and continued for six weeks, the condition is usually cured.

Q—A physical training teacher said that standing on one's head is good for hardening of the arteries. Is this true? Would it have any harmful effects?

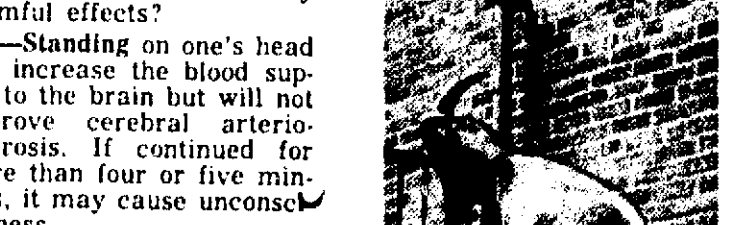

A—Standing on one's head will increase the blood supply to the brain but will not improve cerebral arteriosclerosis. If continued for more than four or five minutes, it may cause unconsciousness.

Q—What is the difference between polyarteritis nodosa and periarthritis nodosa? Can they be cured?

A—These are two names for the same disease. The cause is unknown but it is rarely seen in anyone under 30. Drugs of the cortisone group give the best chance of improvement but they must be used with caution in victims of this disease.

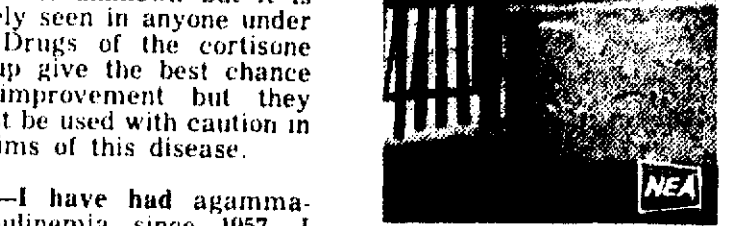

Q—I have had agammaglobulinemia since 1957. I get an injection of gamma globulin every week. Are there any pills I could take instead?

A—Your shortage of natural gamma globulin increases your susceptibility to infection. There is no drug

Boobytraps Blamed for Many Deaths

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say as many as half the 43,000 Americans who have died in the Vietnam war may have been killed by booby-trap devices.

The official military estimate of booby-trap casualties is much lower. But, because there is no precise record of the cause of wounds, the figure could be much higher, officials say.
A rough Pentagon breakdown of combat deaths attributes 17,000 to small-arms fire; 8,000 to multiple fragmentation wounds caused by mortars and artillery; 3,000 in aircraft crashes, and 6,500 to mines, booby traps and grenades. The rest are blamed on miscellaneous causes.

Included in these figures are 10,717 Marines killed in the war. Twenty-four per cent—or 2,600—were killed by mines, booby traps and miscellaneous explosions.
The catch is that neither the claims the figures are firm. The areas shade into one another when it comes to fragmentation wounds, and since nobody is keeping a precise record, Army and Marine officers concede, it's hard to tell.

It is not only U.S. soldiers who are killed by booby traps. These devices are expected to take an increasing toll of Vietnamese as the fighting trails off into more classic guerrilla warfare.

Extensive Army and Marine programs to get at the problem are receiving as much attention as ever. Latest twists are mine-sniffing dogs and ex-Viet Cong troopers dropping by units for lectures.
The booby trap also has taken on political ramifications.
Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., has echoed some antiwar claims that half the Americans killed in the war met death this way.

They "were not killed by front line Viet Cong or North Vietnamese troops," he said in a recent speech. "They were killed by South Vietnamese peasants, men, women and children—who planted mines and booby traps."
Cranston is interpreting Pentagon figures and his own sources, an aide says. He refuses to divulge the sources.

Thursday, September 10, 1970

However, some Pentagon officials concede this could be true. But, they say, it is hard to pinpoint who plants the explosives and why.

Description Doesn't Fit Mr. Bumpers

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Dale Bumpers often refers to himself as a "country bumpkin lawyer." But the description doesn't fit the articulate 45-year-old attorney who Tuesday defeated former Gov. Orval E. Faubus to win Arkansas' Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Outfitted in a dark suit, sometimes puffing on a small cigar in nonpublic moments, Bumpers has a polish and dash that Faubus called a major campaign asset.

Bumpers seldom speaks from a prepared text. A history buff, he quotes from a variety of figures ranging from Oliver Wendell Holmes to Adlai Stevenson. A deeper influence, Bumpers says, was his father, W.R. Bumpers, a state representative in the 1930s who was killed with his wife in a 1948 automobile accident.

"He taught me that politics was a noble profession, that any man who feels he has something to offer—the leadership ability, the desire to serve people less fortunate than he is—not only has the right but an obligation to offer himself for public service," Bumpers says.

"If a free society is going to exist, good men are going to have to come forth."

Bumpers, described by Faubus as a "flaming liberal," has refused to classify his political philosophy. "I may be liberal to you on some things and conservative to others," he says.

Criticized by Faubus for not speaking out more strongly against the concept of busing to achieve racial balance in schools, Bumpers said he opposed busing but would not "capitalize on it for its emotional appeal or political impact." He is considered a moderate on racial issues.

Bumpers will face Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in the November general election.

The new Democratic nominee hails from Charleston, population 1,350, in west Arkansas on an Ozark Mountain plateau. Bumpers has lived there all his life, except for service with the Marines during and after World War II and while obtaining his law degree.

He returned to Charleston in 1951 and bought a hardware store to provide an income for his family, now grown to two sons and a daughter, during the lean years of his early law practice. He now has other business interests and operates a cattle ranch.

As Charleston's only lawyer, Bumpers serves as city attorney. He has served three terms on his local school board. He teaches a Sunday school class and leads the choir at his Methodist church.

In his only other bid for state office, Bumpers lost a 1962 race for state representative. He says he came close to running for governor in 1968, but backed out at the last moment.

State Indians Are Much Improved

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Head Coach Bennie Ellender gave the Arkansas State Indians a "much improved" appraisal here Wednesday following a brief scrimmage session. Ellender said both the offensive and defensive first teams made considerable progress and were improved over earlier scrimmages.

"We had a few more people back and that helped our performance," said Ellender. "Injuries have hurt us considerably in that they have kept many of our key people from working two and three days at a time."

The Indians had planned a major scrimmage for today.

Converts Refuse Into Area of Recreation

NEW YORK (AP) — West Berlin has its "Devil's Mountain" of refuse which has been converted into a recreational area. Now city planners in New York and Chicago are seriously considering similar projects for making mountains out of trash fills.

The Berlin hill was built over the past 10 years to a height of 360 feet, using 80 million cubic meters of wartime rubble. It is on the site of a former Nazi military college.

On the hill are ski jumps, toboggan runs and a military observation post, as well as a vineyard.

City Council President Sanford Garelik believes New York might do well to follow the German example. He has in mind a swampland area in Pelham Bay Park in the Bronx.

Garelik suggests that the city's 20,000 tons of daily refuse be compacted, sanitized, deodorized and piled up to make a 2,500-foot mountain. Each layer of processed refuse would be sandwiched between layers of dirt. He said, "I'm not for dumping fresh garbage."

"There's nothing magic about the 2,500-foot figure," Garelik explained. "It might eventually be that high but the mountain could be used on one side in several years, after it had reached a height of 400 to 500 feet, and while work continued on the other side."

Garelik is pressing for a feasibility study, foreseeing the mountain of refuse as a recreational and ski area.

Frank E. Dalton, assistant chief engineer of the metropolitan sanitary district of Greater Chicago, has had a similar project in mind for two years. His district received a federal planning grant 18 months ago, and a full engineering report is expected before the end of this year.

"First of all, it's not a refuse mountain," Dalton said. "It's a ski mountain. At the rate the Greater Chicago area is using and discarding solid materials—a rate of 33 million cubic yards a year—we could build a mountain as high as the John Hancock building (1,000 feet) on a base two miles by two miles. And the people of this area would fill the mountain in 26 years. Strictly, the mass would not be a sheer, steep mountain but an intelligently developed area with lakes, nature trails, hiking trails and other recreation uses."

Dalton said if funds and land were available related processing and reclaiming facilities for such things as discarded metal and printed matter could be built within three years.

"But it wouldn't take that long to have a recreation area," he added. "If the Illinois Legislature passed legislation and provided a taxing body to purchase land, we could get the whole thing off and rolling within a year."

Nixon Man Fights Law on Pornography

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's sole appointee to the Commission on Pornography has launched a court battle to knock out its recommendation for repeal of all U.S. pornography laws for adults.

The commissioner, Charles H. Keating Jr., is also suing for a court order to block publication of the 10,000-word commission report until he and other dissenters have time to file minority reports.

U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch Wednesday issued a 10-day restraining order against publication of the report until Sept. 18 when Keating's request for a preliminary injunction against the report will be heard.

Keating, who repeatedly urged President Nixon to disband the commission, charged it's recommending repeal of six federal and 108 state laws against showing and selling pornography to adults in defiance of what he contends was Congress' mandate to find ways to control obscenity.

"The commission, under the guidance of its chairman, its executive director and staff," he charged, "completely ignored this intent of Congress and did produce a document which made a sham of the Congress' national concern involving traffic in obscenity and pornography."

He charged the recommendation to repeal pornography laws is illegal because Congress gave the commission no such power when it created it three years ago.

The White House has disavowed the commission and announced President Nixon would oppose the recommendation.

One of Keating's lawyers said he filed the court action on his own.

"He is keeping the White House advised on what he is doing," the lawyer added.

Twelve of the 18 commission members voted for the repeal recommendation and three voted against it, Keating said. He said he did not vote and two other members did not believe there was sufficient evidence at this time to warrant the recommendation.

Keating, a Cincinnati lawyer and founder of Citizens for Decent Literature Inc., also charged commission Chairman William B. Lockhart and executive director W. Cody Wilson acted to "hinder, hamper and make impossible" his writing of an adequate minority report.

He contends they denied him access to basic information and limited him to a 150-page dissenting view.

Keating's court action was filed against the commission, all 17 members appointed by former President Lyndon B. Johnson, executive director Wilson

Agnew to Tour 20 States for Republicans

By WALTER K. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew embarks today on the first leg of a 20-state tour to whip up support for Republican congressional candidates in the Nov. 3 election.

His assignment as the administration's seeker of Republican votes and dollars took on added significance when President Nixon apparently decided against any open political missions.

The vice president's assistance will go primarily to administration loyalists.

Agnew's week-long opening swing will cover six states at a somewhat leisurely pace. Two appearances a day is the heaviest announced schedule for the vice president.

He will travel aboard a jetliner chartered by the Republican National Committee, and will be aided by a detachment of Nixon's own speechwriters and advisers.

Agnew's leadoff appearance is a rally on the steps of the state Capitol in Springfield, Ill., where Republican Sen. Ralph T. Smith faces the formidable election day challenge of Adlai E. Stevenson III.

He plans to stay in Casper, Wyo., tonight and travel to San Diego for the California Republican convention Friday. Agnew is scheduled to remain in San Diego over the weekend and make no public appearances.

He is to appear in Las Vegas Monday, Albuquerque Tuesday, and Saginaw and Grand Rapids, Mich., Wednesday.

In Wyoming, Republican Rep. John Wold is challenging Democratic Sen. Gale W. McGee; in California, George Murphy, a Republican, is the senator, and Democratic Rep. John V. Tunney is his challenger.

The Las Vegas stop will offer a boost to William Raggio, the Reno district attorney whom Agnew helped urge into a Senate race against Democratic Sen. Howard W. Cannon.

In New Mexico, it is conservative Republican Anderson Carter against Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, a Democrat; in Michigan, Lenore Romney is the Republican nominee against Democratic Sen. Philip A. Hart.

Later Agnew campaign appearances this month are to include Louisville, Ky., and Memphis, Tenn., on Sept. 22; Indianapolis on Sept. 24; Milwaukee on Sept. 25; Sioux Falls, S.D., and Minot, N.D., on Sept. 29, and Salt Lake City on Sept. 30.

Nixon has advised Republicans who ask his aid that he feels he can best help the GOP off-year ticket by performing in the White House, not on the political platform.

Mrs. Agnew and daughter Kimberly, 14, will accompany the vice president on the initial week's campaigning.

and the director of the U.S. Printing Office which will publish the report.

Mayor Frank Douglas today proclaimed the month of September Children's Lung Disease month and urged all citizens of Hope to support the Breath of Life Campaign of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation Sept. 13-19.

Mayor Douglas signed the proclamation in the presence of Mrs. Albert Patton, chairman of the 1970 fund-raising drive for the Arkansas Chapter of the Foundation official on the expansion of the cystic fibrosis program to benefit children suffering from other serious chronic respiratory diseases, as well as cystic fibrosis.

"The symptoms of asthma with lung damage, chronic bronchitis, childhood emphysema and bronchiectasis often resemble those of cystic fibrosis," Mayor Douglas said. "It is good to know that these patients, as well as the patients for whom the Foundation originally was founded, may be aided by the diagnostic, therapeutic and research programs at C-F Centers throughout the country."

Mayor Douglas spelled out the Foundation's new approach in his proclamation, which read:

1970 PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, respiratory diseases represent almost half of the chronic illnesses of children and account for as much as 85 per cent of the time spent by pediatricians in treatment, and

WHEREAS, lung-damaging diseases affect more than 5 million children in the United States, and

WHEREAS, the most tragic respiratory disease in children is cystic fibrosis, an inherited biochemical disorder which occurs once in every thousand births, or 3,500 to 4,000 babies each year, and

WHEREAS, it is estimated that one person in 20 may carry a defective CF gene, and

WHEREAS, at this time there is no control, despite advances in treatment, for this inherited lung disease, and

WHEREAS, the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation is supporting research to find a control for cystic fibrosis and care for all children with similar symptoms in Centers across the land, and

WHEREAS, the day of Sept. 15 has been designated as CHILDREN'S LUNG DISEASE day in the City of Hope to enlist public support in the fight against cystic fibrosis and related serious lung diseases in children,

BE IT THEREFORE resolved, that I Frank Douglas, acting under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and Laws of this Hope, hereby proclaim the (month) of September as CHILDREN'S LUNG DISEASE month and urge the citizens of our community to join with the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation in its humanitarian task.

rette holder - filter, Faubus propped his feet on his own desk and was jovial with those who interrupted the interview occasionally with telephone calls.

"It reminds me of the shellacking we took with Sid McMath in 1952," Faubus chuckled.

Faubus said it was too early to talk about his own political future.

His immediate plan, he said, is to "find a job - unless I can put Beth to work." They laughed at that.

Faubus said "I just don't know" when asked if he might return to Dogpatch U.S.A., the theme park he managed near Harrison before filing for the governor's race. The park is owned by Jess Odom of Little Rock, a real estate developer and a Faubus financial backer from the start of this campaign. Faubus said Odom remained the chief individual contributor in the unsuccessful race, but did not state a total for Odom's gifts.

"I don't even know how much he gave," Faubus said. "When the money in the campaign fund got low and we needed some we would call him and he would put some in."

Another immediate problem is election bills. Faubus said the unpaid portion of his expenses amounted to about $5,000 but that enough in contributions was on hand to cover most of them.

Many campaign expenses - such as telecasts - must be paid for in advance.

Faubus estimated that his headquarters' share of the campaign costs would total about $50,000. Many additional expenses were financed, by groups and individuals around the state without direct connections to his headquarters, including 135 persons who paid for advertising in their areas.

He complemented Bumpers on a "splendid victory," pledged to vote in November for the Democratic nominee and urged the newcomer to use the triumph to benefit "all the people."

In Faubus' analysis, the Bumpers candidacy was attractive to many voters for several reasons, including the fact that Bumpers was a new face on the political scene.

"Also, he had no record and his position on many issues is not known," Faubus said. "He was the kind of person that anyone could believe was what he wanted in a candidate. A liberal could believe 'he's my kind of liberal' a middle-of-the-roader could believe 'he's my kind of middle-of-the-roader' a conservative could believe that Bumpers was his kind of conservative."

"That's a powerful advantage for a candidate," Faubus said.

He said he believed Bumpers had been permitted by the press, probably through temporary oversight, to escape without adequately explaining his position on the issues.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, commented Wednesday that Bumpers had not offered any solutions to state problems, and Faubus noted this in a newspaper during the interview. He chuckled when a friend suggested that the Republican governor was quoting from a Faubus speech.

Faubus was suddenly reticent on some points.

Could Bumpers beat Rockefeller? "No comment," Faubus said.

How would American party nominee Walter Carruth fare in November? "No comment," Faubus answered.

Before the runoff, he had suggested both that Rockefeller could beat Bumpers by drawing off votes Bumpers received in the primary and that Bumpers might be a better candidate than Rockefeller.

Faubus also had said earlier that Carruth's influence in the general election would be minimal if Faubus won the Democratic nomination, but would be increased by a nominee like Bumpers.

The decision to run was based on a sense of duty rather than a desire for the office, Faubus said.

"I say that knowing full well that it'll be discounted in many circles but that happened to be my main reason," Faubus said. "I didn't like the way things were going, the continuing spread of lawlessness, the disappearance of old-time courtesy, the continuance of disorder all over the country."

"I felt impelled to speak out against that sort of thing and

"FAST" OF THE "BIG SPENDER"

DEAR Helen:

The guy I'm dating is great looking, but not exactly the last of the big spenders. His idea of fun is feeding dry bread to the ducks in the park, or parking by the lake for two or three hours. (Just necking and talking.)

Then when we come back, it's always "Sorry, but there isn't time to eat." So he takes me home starved. Then he cleans out the fridge.

He has a part time job and more money than most of the guys I know. But he sure hangs on to it where I'm concerned! Of course his car is different - nothing's too good. That Mustang has upholstery that won't quit, but we don't even sit in it at a drive-in - though sometimes he parks on a hill above it so we can watch the picture without sound - for free.

What bugs me is, he always has some perfectly good excuse for not going anywhere that costs money: Like the County Fair is just too hick-townish or there isn't a decent movie in town or "Milk shakes are fattening." I'd be glad to go Dutch. No luck!

What do you do with a guy like that? - FASTING AGAINST MY WILL

Dear FAMW:

I could do without him very easily. But if you can't, in spite of his pinch-penny ways, then maybe you should take along a to do what I could to check it," he said. "The best way to do it was as a candidate. If the fact that I ran has some effect in checking this sort of thing then my efforts were not altogether in vain."

He declined to answer when asked if he would be included to campaign for Bumpers if requested to do so. He said he believed his experience in government greatly exceeded that of the Democratic nominee, but declined to comment when asked if he might be willing to be a part of any Bumpers administration.

sack lunch. ("And then give him the sack! "Adds our teenage daughter.) -H.

Dear Helen:

I am a girl of 14. I dated a 16-year-old boy a couple of times and then he called me up and asked me to meet him that night at a school parking lot.

I was surprised to find five of his friends were with him when I got there. He hung back a little and they started to gang up on me. My boy friend got in a fist fight, but it didn't seem real. It was as if he knew what was going to happen or even planned it that way. They said they'd beat me if I didn't keep quiet, but I yelled anyway. I was scared to death.

Two policemen heard me screaming and the boys all scattered. I didn't tell them about the attack because I didn't want to cause trouble, and besides, I still can't help loving this guy, even though he might be mixed up with this gang.

How can I find out if he's clean? -W.S.S.

Dear W.:

If this fellow scattered with the other hoodlums, he is probably as guilty as they are. At the very least, he's a coward who runs with dangerous "friends," and should be avoided like the plague. -H.

(NOTE TO READERS: The most frightening thing about this letter, and all too many others like it, is that a girl feels she must confide in an advice columnist rather than her parents, whose duty is to protect her! Where did family communication go?)

Dear Helen:

I am 13 and my cousin is almost 12. We were up in my room when my cousin asked me for a cigarette. I gave her one, but didn't smoke with her.

My Mother came in and saw her smoking, so she punished me. She thinks my cousin never smoked before, but I could tell her different except I'm no fink.

Why should I get grounded when my mother didn't see me smoking this time. (She'd caught me two weeks before though.) CINDY

P.S. This is a hard blow because I'm gonna miss a skating party.

Dear Cindy:

You're guilty on two counts: Being "in possession" (you don't have cigarettes in your room unless you intend to smoke them, right?) and "contributing" to the stupidity of an 11-year old.

If the blow fits, bear it! -H.

Economist to Serve a 16 County Area

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.-Mrs. Rebecca H. Crouch has been appointed area Extension home economist-nutrition and will serve in a five-county area, C.A. Vines, director, Agricultural Extension Service, has announced. The appointment, effective September 7, 1970, is subject to approval of the President of the University of Arkansas.

Mrs. Crouch who will be headquartered at Hope will devote full time to strengthening the nutritional educational program in Hempstead, Lafayette, Little River, Miller, and Nevada Counties. She will be working with county Extension economists in the area in reaching boys and girls in an effort to improve youth nutrition and to help youth understand the value of good diets in their daily living habits. She will work with individuals and groups to improve the nutritional quality and adequacy of diets, and to improve skills as they relate to food procurement, selection, preparation, storage, and consumption.

Mrs. Crouch who was born in Monticello and attended high school at Rison attended Arkansas A&M at Monticello two years and transferred to Henderson State College at Arkadelphia where she received her bachelor of science degree in home economics in 1962. She joined the Extension Service staff in June after graduation and served as assistant Extension Home Economist for Ashley County. In 1964 she was promoted to Extension home economist and transferred to Cleveland County. She moved to Grant County in 1965 as EHE and resigned in January, 1968. She taught in the Patmos school system during the 1968-69 school year. She rejoined the Extension Service in January, 1970, as an associate for Hempstead County with responsibility in the expanded nutrition program.

Mrs. Crouch is the former Rebecca Harper whose parents live near Star City in Lincoln County. She is married to Tommy M. Crouch who is an accountant, and they have one daughter, Carla, who is a year old.

Kids Find a Garden Can Grow in City

By PEGGY SIMPSON

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - More than a thousand local youngsters spent their summer vacation worrying about worms and weeds. They tried their hand at playground gardening - and what the worms didn't get, their families did.

For 11-year-old Bonnie Carter, that meant meal after meal of garden-fresh okra, by popular demand of her mother, brothers and sisters.

"I was surprised you could grow a garden in the city," she said. "I wish there were more." Bonnie wasn't the only one surprised at the fruits sown from Washington's inner city, target of criticism from around the country for breeding crime, not green vegetables.

Several congressmen alluded to this Wednesday in impromptu remarks to the gardeners, most of them black. They said back-home folks decry Washington as a crime capital but seldom learn of such fruitful, constructive efforts as the youth gardens program.

"I know good produce when I see it - and you've turned out some good things," said Rep. James R. Mann, D-S.C.

Yvette Battle and her twin, Donnette, said they grew up in city, which is built on seven hills.

Guerrillas in Beirut said fighting also continued today in the Jordanian cities of Irbid and Jarash, north of Amman. They said the guerrillas controlled Irbid, Jordan's second largest city, and were trying to take an army garrison a few miles outside town.

Most of the 12,000 Iraqi forces stationed in Jordan are based near Irbid, 45 miles north of the capital. The Iraqis have threatened to intervene in the fighting on the side of the guerrillas, but sources in Beirut said Iraqi officers were trying to arrange a cease-fire.

Gen. Mashour Haditha, the Jordanian army chief of staff, ordered his forces Wednesday to "cease shooting at once or face the severest military penalty." Yasir Arafat, the chief of the guerrilla command, issued a similar order to his commandos and commended Haditha's "swift action to bring bloodshed to an immediate end." But gunfire continued in Amman Wednesday, and thousands huddled in cellars and other shelters.

Guerrilla sources charged that officers in Jordan's 40th Armored Brigade had rebelled and demanded that Maj. Gen. Zaid Ben Shaker, King Hussein's cousin, be returned to command of the army. Hussein relieved Ben Shaker to appease the guerrillas after fighting last June but recently named him deputy chief of staff.

The guerrillas and the army have been battling in Jordan for months. The current fighting began after Hussein accepted the Arab-Israeli cease-fire proposed by the United States, a plan the guerrillas opposed even though the Jordanian government said it could not force them to comply with the truce.

ing an elaborate trap. Another theory was that the Cambodian relief force would withdraw, and the North Vietnamese could again encircle Kompong Thom without serious casualties.

The government spokesman said Cambodians along the Stung Sen who have been under Communist control for months waved and cheered as the amphibious column moved along the river.

The column brought in large amounts of supplies for the defenders of Kompong Thom and the population. The town has been surrounded, cut off from all land and water communication, for three months. The defenders at one point were so hungry they raided the city's zoo and ate some of the animals.

Meanwhile, a second force pushing northward to relieve Kompong Thom was reported moving slowly up Route 6 from Skoun and still 40 miles away, having covered 10 miles in three days.

The spokesman said the advance was slow because the infantrymen were waiting for the engineers to repair blown bridges and other breaks in the highway.

The operation to relieve Kompong Thom is the biggest government offensive of the 5½-month-old war in Cambodia, involving an estimated 10,000 men including support troops.

the city and never had seen anyone piddle around in a garden until they had their own.

With help of the Washington Youth Garden Council, the D.C. recreation department and some federal funds, they found a plot to call their own, in the Twin Oaks recreation area.

"I wanted to grow corn but I didn't. I got interested in string beans. I like to pick them," said 12-year-old Yvette. "We had four or five meals off of them."

Coraine Bivings and Maureen Angelos nurtured a pair of sugar cane stalks during the past nine months at their garden corner of the Rose Park play-ground.

Ten-year-old Leon Huckaby button-holed the mayor, Walter Washington, to pose for a picture with his produce.

"What's your major crop?" the mayor asked.

"Tomatoes," the fearless Leon said.

"We hear a lot of what's wrong with this city," the mayor said, but he wanted outsiders to know about the responsibility these youngsters acquired tending crops.

"There is always something that is going to grow as your vegetables have if you put into it your warmth and your care," he told them.

Adm. Rickover Was Serious

Members of a House appropriations subcommittee recently laughed at the remarks of a star witness who was describing operations in the Pentagon. But the speaker, Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover, the salty outspoken scientist-sailor, failed to see anything funny about the situation. The congressmen failed to understand that the admiral was deadly serious. In view of Adm. Rickover's success in prodding the Navy into the nuclear age, perhaps he should be assigned to correcting the faults he criticized.

Adm. Rickover told the subcommittee that much of the pentagon activity was a device for employees to make work for each other and that he would rid the building of at least half its employees. He said he would on two successive Mondays fill the first two floors of the building with a sufficient number of workers to do the required tasks and rope off the two top floors. The admiral also was critical of the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard and said that "if the Navy assigned construction of one of the new high-speed submarines to Portsmouth, it probably would cost $40 to $70 million more than construction in a private yard."

We suspect there is truth in what Adm. Rickover said, and like him, we don't find it overly humorous. — Houston (Tex.) Chronicle

Catfish Market Study Planned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The University of Arkansas will conduct a research study of the domestic catfish market and existing marketing methods. The study will be conducted under the auspices of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and will be funded by the Economic Development Administration.

The purpose of the study is to obtain information for the identification of current potential market opportunities for catfish.

Seminars at Planned at Tech School

A series of seminars on Supervisory Leadership Development will begin September 22 in Hope, according to B. N. Holt, Executive Vice-President of the Hope Hempstead County Chamber of Commerce. This series, presented by the Industrial Research and Extension Center, College of Business Administration, University of Arkansas, and sponsored locally by the Hope-Hempstead County Chamber of Commerce, will consist of six sessions. They will be conducted Tuesday evenings from 7:00 - 9:30 at the Red River Vo-Tech School.

Began in 1966, the Supervisory Leadership Development programs have been presented to more than 2,000 plant foremen and supervisors in the State in the development of job effectiveness. Course topics to be studied include Dynamics of Behavior, Changing Behavior, Communications, The Problem Employee, Group Dynamics, and Organizational Behavior. Instructors for the sessions will include: Dr. Thomas S. Hickey, Professor of Business and Psychology at Centenary College, Shreveport, Louisiana; Mr. Bill Cox, Vice President of Harding College; Mr. Frank Hall, Coordinator of Education Programs, Industrial Research and Extension Center, University of Arkansas; and other staff members of the Industrial Research and Extension Center.

Persons desiring to enroll in the course should contact the Hope-Hempstead County Chamber of Commerce as soon as possible. Enrollment will be limited to permit maximum individual attention. A fee of $40.00 per person will be charged.

Jordan Army Enroute to Contest Battling Guerrillas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian army forces battled through the night in Amman despite appeals for a cease-fire from the leaders of both sides. Guerrillas in the Jordanian capital said the fighting centered on the Amman airport, the Jebel Hussein Citadel, the royal palaces and other sections of the city. They said many houses were destroyed.

The guerrillas said soldiers in 10 scout cars attacked the headquarters of the Popular Democratic Front, a radical guerrilla organization, but that they were repelled and four of the cars were destroyed.

The International Hotel was hit by small arms fire, and guerrillas and soldiers battled for an adjacent building. No one in the hotel was hurt, but one round knocked out the building's water system, flooding the lobby and downstairs offices. The guests, including more than 120 women and children freed from two airliners hijacked Sunday, spent the night on mattresses in the downstairs night club and in hallways.

Cambodia Lifts a 3 Month Siege

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Meeting only light resistance, a Cambodian amphibious force of some 1,500 men reached Kompong Thom Wednesday night and lifted a three-month siege of the provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh, the Cambodian command announced.

A spokesman said that one Cambodian soldier was killed in the lightly contested drive up the Stung Sen River by a column of boats more than a mile and a half long. The column, which included gunboats with cannon, reached the provincial capital after a two-day operation that began on the shores of Cambodia's huge lake, Tonle Sap, the spokesman said.

Western military experts were puzzled by the ease with which the siege was reported broken, considering that most of the North Vietnamese 20th Division is reported still in the immediate area.

One source suggested that the North Vietnamese might be laying

Comeback Vanquished, Faubus Returning to Hills Without a Job

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former Gov. Orval E. Faubus, his political comeback vanquished, says he will return to the Ozarks "without malice, regret or any desire to do any of it differently."

And without a job. Faubus, 60, spoke in an interview late Wednesday at his campaign headquarters here in the wake of the stunning victory by 45-year-old Dale Bumpers, a Charleston attorney.

In the last days of the runoff campaign, the Faubus camp viewed with growing trepidation the sudden surge of support for Bumpers, the former governor said.

"We had figured he was going to whomp us real good or else it would be so close we would have to wait until the last box was in to see who won," Faubus said.

"He had a tide going," Faubus said. "We didn't know whether we had blunted that tide. When the returns started coming in, we saw that we hadn't."

It was the third election defeat in the long career of Faubus and his first on a statewide level. He won six successive terms as governor, holding office from 1954 until 1967, before retiring.

The previous defeats were in a race for Democratic nomination for state representative in Madison County in 1926, and the race for county judge as the Democratic nominee in 1946.

Losing his first major contest, Faubus said, was "kind of like when you engage in athletics and roll up a string of six or seven victories and then get knocked off."

"It really is no surprise to eventually lose one," he said. "No one is invincible just as no one is indispensable."

During the interview, Faubus aide Robert Troutt, his household goods already packed for a return to Hot Springs, sat at a nearby desk listening to the discussion.

A few feet away, Faubus' wife, Elizabeth, sat on a couch and leafed through a book about the Rockefeller family.

Faubus looked rested. He wore a black suit and blue shirt and often laughed heartily.

Bill G. Wells of Hermitage, a first primary also-ran who had endorsed Faubus, was on hand during the afternoon and Faubus joked, "Bill, I'm sorry I pulled you fellows into such a drubbing."

U.S. to Sell Jet Planes to Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has decided to sell 16 to 18 more F4E Phantom jet fighter-bombers to Israel, say administration sources.

Deliveries reportedly will start within a few weeks and continue at four or five monthly through December.

In Cairo, the Egyptian government said Wednesday night that the decision was "regrettable" and "will lead to grave consequences."

But the official Middle East News Agency added that the new sale "was not a surprise to us and it was obvious that previous days witnessed an organized campaign as a prelude for the Phantoms."

At the White House, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler would neither confirm nor deny reports of the agreement.

A sale of 50 Phantoms to Israel was announced during the closing days of the Johnson administration. Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir asked early this year for 25 more, but the United States has yet to respond openly.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said last week, however, that the original 50-plane contract may imply an agreement for the United States to replace losses.

Rail Strike Is Delayed Five Days

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for the railroad industry and four AFL-CIO unions continued their wage talks after the unions postponed today's nationwide strike deadline for five days at government request.

Assistant Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery urged both sides to use the delay for hard bargaining toward a peaceful settlement that would avert government intervention to halt any crippling strike.

"This is in the best interests of the unions, their members, the railroads and the nation as a whole," Usery said of the postponement and the chance to bargain for an agreement covering the 500,000 workers involved.

The strike deadline was moved from 12:01 a.m. today to 12:01 a.m. Monday. Usery said the request for the postponement was made after consultation among federal agencies including the White House.

President Nixon still could delay any strike for 60 days under emergency procedures of the Railway Labor Act, but Usery said the government prefers to see a voluntary settlement.

Usery added, however, the dispute was still a long way from settled and the unions had emphasized they would grant no further strike postponement.

The four unions represent rail clerks, trainmen, track maintenance workers and dining car employees are demanding wage hikes of 40 per cent or more over three years, plus cost-of-living pay and other benefits.

Arab Hijackers Extend Deadline to Saturday for Planes, Hostages

U.S. Plans No Force for Release

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — High-level Nixon administration officials say privately there is almost no chance the United States will use military force to free airline passengers held hostage by Arab guerrillas.

But with new developments almost hourly, officials say the administration is considering every line of approach—and closing the door on none—in an attempt to gain the release of the more than 300 hostages, including several Americans.

President Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers spent much of their time Wednesday discussing the latest series of hijackings.

The White House announced six Air Force C130 transports carrying medical teams have been dispatched to an allied base in Turkey, near the Syrian border and about 70 minutes' flying time from the Jordanian desert where three hijacked jets and the hostages are being held. The move was described as a precaution in case the hostages can be removed.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler refused to discuss whether the United States is moving other military equipment or troops nearer the Jordanian desert airstrip.

The only U.S. forces in the immediate area are 1,800 Marines with the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean, and a 1,500-man airborne brigade in Germany.

"We're facing a situation brought about by fanatics who have obviously no concern for the welfare of innocent people," State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey told newsmen.

British Balk at Freeing Arab Woman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arab guerrillas today extended until 10 p.m. EDT Saturday their deadline for the release of captive Palestinians in exchange for three hijacked airliners and about 280 hostages held in the Jordanian desert.

The guerrillas early today released 21 Arab passengers from a British plane hijacked Wednesday and also freed a British girl engaged to one of the Arab passengers. Jordanian army buses took those freed to the Intercontinental Hotel in Amman.

A guerrilla spokesman said there would be no further extension of the deadline, Beirut Radio reported.

The hijackers had threatened to blow up at least two of the planes by 10 p.m. EDT Wednesday unless seven of their comrades under arrest in Britain, West Germany and Switzerland were released. West Germany and Switzerland agreed to free the six commandos they are holding, but the British government so far has balked at freeing a woman it holds.

A guerrilla spokesman said the planes and passengers who are not Israelis would be released when the seven Arabs arrive in Amman. He said the Israeli passengers—how many there are is not known—would be traded for Arab guerrillas held in Israel.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, the organization of which the hijackers are members, said it extended the deadline in response to an appeal from representatives of the International Red Cross.

"The U.S. and England have to understand that their attitude is not in favor of the safety of the passengers of the three aircraft," a communiqué from the Popular Front said.

It added that the deadline was extended to give more opportunity to the parties involved to take the necessary steps.

The U.N. Security Council appealed unanimously Wednesday night for the release of the passengers and crew of the three captive airliners. It called on all nations to take legal steps to avert future hijackings.

The three planes are a Trans World Airlines Boeing 707 with 110 persons aboard, a Swissair DC8 with 87 aboard, and a British Overseas Airways Corp. VC10 with 113 aboard. The American and Swiss planes were hijacked Sunday, the British plane on Wednesday. Popular Front guerrillas were holding them on an airstrip in northern Jordan.

The TWA and Swiss air planes were diverted on flights from European cities to New York, and the commandos took control of the BOAC jetliner over the Persian Gulf after it took off from Bahrain on a flight from Bombay to London.

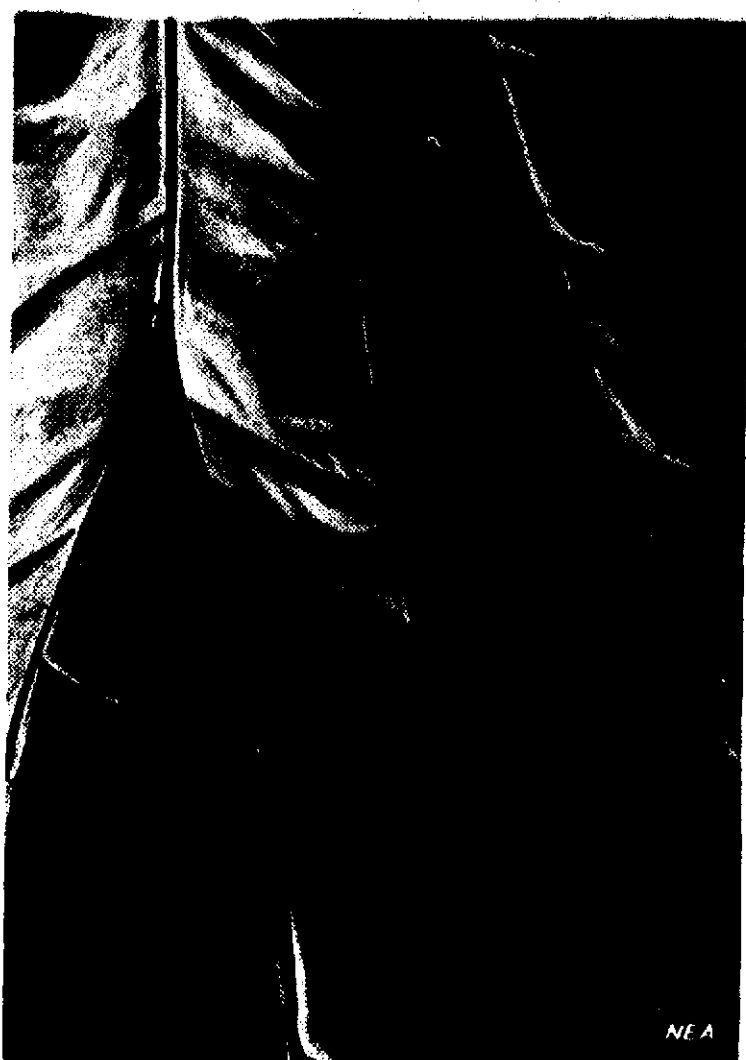

Red Cross representative Andre Rochat, acting as intermediary between the Palestinian guerrillas and the three countries holding commandos in jail, said the guerrillas have allowed a doctor and a Red Cross team to attend the hostages in the planes parked under the desert sun.

Tributes Two Party System

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—Odel Pollard of Searcy, chairman of the state Republican Party, said Wednesday that Dale Bumpers' success in Tuesday's runoff for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination could be "a large measure" in the two-party system.

Bumpers defeated former Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

WHAT'S THIS?

Although it looks like the spire of some Gothic cathedral, this construction is not man-made. Look again and try to guess before reading on. Give up? It's part of a dragonfly's wing, photographed in great magnification by a scanning electron microscope.
